History of the Assyrian National School Association of America, Inc.

During the massacre of Christians by the Turkish Government in 1895, many Assyrians fled Diabezcr for the freedom of the United States of America.

After having lived in this country for a period of four years a group of men met on October 8, 1899, at Sterling, New Jersey, and organized a club with the avowed intentions of assisting the Assyrian people. These members started with an initiation fee of one dollar and weekly dues of five cents.

By 1908 there were three separate units of this organization in existence. Realizing the advantages of united and organized effort, the three organizations formed an executive body to transact the important business of the National Organization. This national executive body was formed by the election of two delegates from each of the three units then operating.

The Executive body convened and discussed the advisability of forming a national constitution and by laws to be observed by the three units then operating also, any other units which might come into existence in future years. It was then that the present constitution and by-laws were drawn up and offered to the three existing branches for adoption. The laws were approved and subsequently adopted and the organization has been operating under these rules ever since.

In 1914 after the World War started and the Turkish Government drove all Christians out of Diarbecker, Mesopotamia and Asia Minor, those of our Assyrian People who were not killed were driven from their homes and scattered far and wide. Many children were left orphans and drifting about without the advantages of some definite organized Assyrian charitable institution, and thus were being lost to our People by being absorbed in homes of other nations. Homes and properties were also destroyed and churches and other public buildings desecrated and destroyed. The executive committee convened and discussed the advisability of changing the original purpose of the organization which was the furthering of Assyrian education in Diarbecker to the furthering of Assyrian education in any large community of Assyrian inhabitants in Beirut, Mosul, Jerusalem and Syria.

Today this Association consists of the following branches: - Paterson - Hudson County - Newark - Summit; New Jersey. Long Island - Brooklyn - Ladies Auxiliary of Brooklyn - New York City; New York.
Beirut - Kamshley; Syria; and the Assyrian National Relief Society Affiliated.

It is the desire and intention of this Association to establish such additional Orphanages and Educational Center in other localities as the needs may become prevalent and the funds of this Association will permit. It is the further desire of this organization to assist worthy Assyrian students in America and abroad to acquire a higher education by establishing a College Scholarship Endowment Fund.

Assyrian Orphanage and School at Beirut, Syria

When the Great War ended, the French High Commissioner realized the pressing need of an orphanage for the Assyrian children and in 1918 the needed orphanage was opened at Adana. This orphanage was carried on for only three years. When the Christians left the town and were scattered to other parts of the world, the orphanage also was scattered and in 1922 the French High Commissioner withdrew government help.

In 1923 the Assyrian National School Association of America, Inc., realized the need of re-establishing the once scattered Adana orphanage in Beirut, without having this time any outside help, at a cost of $3,000. In 1926 the Association bought a small piece of land, about 900 square meters, on which the present orphanage building was constructed at a cost of $12,000.

The orphanage building is situated in the center of the town at Khandak-el-Ghamik, Syria. It consists of an assembly room, a dormitory, three class rooms, an office for the director, and a playground. The basement consists of a dining room, kitchen storeroom, two bath rooms and three shops for a future industrial department. The plan of the building contemplates the construction of a second story which must wait until the necessary funds are secured.

The aim of this establishment is to provide a center of higher education for all the Assyrians. The greatest need for the Assyrian People is "Educated Leaders", and the aim of the administration is to produce, through this school, leaders who are strong in body, intelligent in mind, upright in character, and trained in the Christian way of life.

BRIEF OUTLINE of the
Syriac Orphanage and School of Beirut

The World War left many of the youth of the Syriac Church, orphans. Its tribulations drove many from their homelands to the lands of Syria and Lebanon. The Assyrian National School Association of the United States of America, took interest in them and brought them together in an orphanage founded in Beirut, the capital of the Lebanese Republic, in 1923. Its purpose was not merely to house them and feed them, but to bring them up in the traditions of true Syriac culture, to prepare them for useful work for their nation and their country. For that purpose it founded the Orphanage and school to teach them the Syriac language, their racial language, and the Arabic language, the language of the land. They are taught also the French language, the language of the Mandatory power, and other subjects required in the official school program.

In its first stage the school did not follow any definite course, and it was not possible to compare its classes with the classes of the official schools until the end of the scholastic year, 1933-1934. It was natural not to expect much success or progress from such a school. However, beginning with the scholastic year 1934-1935, the school made perceptible progress. It began to have an official program, preparing its students for preliminary examinations in accordance with the Lebanese and French requirements of the ministry of education. Beginning with the scholastic year 1936-1937, it added secondary classes for fulfillment of the Lebanese and French requirements for the secondary certificates. It was encouraged to do that in view of the splendid progress which its students attained in the ministry's examinations.

THE PURPOSE OF THE ORPHANAGE SCHOOL

The chief objective sought by the Assyrian National School Association of America, Inc., and the administrative of school boards in founding the Orphanage and the School, was to serve the Syrian nation generally, without distinction of sect or creed or of the country in which that nation is represented. This it sought to do in the following manner:

1. General Culture

By general culture is meant the cultivation of the mental powers in the various fields of life, believing that those of limited mental experiences are also limited in their thinking capacity. The pupils are trained in straight thinking, to avoid extremism, and to cultivate mental initiative for the pursuance of their mental tasks. The Syriac language takes first place in the school program.

2. Spiritual — Ethical Culture

The best measure of a nation is the spiritual ethical one. Perfect personalities are distinguished by high spiritual and ethical traits. For that purpose, the Orphanage strives with full enthusiasm and liberality to fulfill those sacred duties, watching with solicitude over its pupils, as their own parents would do, that they may be brought up in praiseworthy spiritual virtues from their infancy.
3. Health Improvement and Physical Culture.

Sound health is one of the high necessities of life. For a community consisting of weak, unambitious individuals can never be progressive. Health has its decided influence on the soul, mind and character. And, because the school feels the necessity for the improvement of health, it employs all the means in its power towards that end, the cultivation of the health of its pupils.

4. Preparing the pupils to follow up their studies in high educational institutions.

The Orphanage has a fourth objective or purpose, which is to prepare the pupils for following up their studies in higher institutions of learning. It strives to secure for them their future, to supply them with the forces for which they stand in greatest need in the pursuance of their higher education.

5. Equipping the Orphans for industrial life.

Many of the pupils of the Orphanage cannot possibly pursue their studies in the higher schools. In this connection, they must follow one of the trades. The Orphanage seeks to help those pupils in the selection of the trade most suitable to each according to his nature and preparation. In this way, the Orphanage offers a most useful service.

These five objectives indicate the great interest shown by the Orphanage towards its pupils, the extent of sacrifice which is required of it and the responsibility which it discharges for the common good. The reader will find in the following, the means employed for the attainment of these objectives.

ADMINISTRATION

There are two boards for the Syriac Orphanage and its school. One is a school board and the other is a board of administrations. The latter concerns itself with the administrative matters, such as expenditure, management of the institution and supervision. It watches over its progress towards the ultimate purpose which is sought by the Assyrian National School Association of America, Inc. The board of administration is authorized to contract with the teachers who must in turn submit to the orders and decisions issuing from it, as given out by the superintendent of the school board.

An equally grave responsibility rests on the school board which is entrusted with the preparation of the school curriculum, the actual teaching and the representation of the school before the government. It takes especial interest in the cultivation of the character of the pupils, in their spiritual and physical culture. It acts in the settlement of all disputes, removal of misunderstanding between pupils, holding all meetings, and fulfilling generally the objectives of the school. Besides, it lays down new plans which would assure the high objectives and ideals of the school its desired progress and development. To achieve these things the following requirements are made to the members of that board:

1. No teacher shall take part in any political movements.
2. No teacher shall take part in a sectarian movement which is at variance with the purpose of the Orphanage and its school.

3. No teacher shall follow a personal course which is contrary to the purpose of the Orphanage and its school.

4. No teacher shall cultivate the friendship, or encourage those who seek to obstruct the endeavors of the school, whether in word or in any deed.

6. Every teacher must keep secret the decisions of the administrative and school boards, withholding from the public and the pupils or members of the Syriac church. Acts contrary to these would be considered a breach of discipline.

7. Every teacher is required to cooperate sincerely and enthusiastically with the rest of the teachers.

8. It is required of every teacher to be of exemplary conduct and character, free of such vices that would abase him in the eyes of the pupils and his colleagues.

9. Every teacher must observe promptness in attendance, and must not absent himself except for an urgent reason and by permission of the board.

10. No teacher may engage in work outside of his teaching hours except by agreement with the board.

11. Every teacher must review his suggestions of whatsoever nature with the school superintendent, who represents the administrative board and who in turn would submit it, if required of him to do so, before the administrative board. The superintendent presides over the teaching body and should be obeyed.

12. Every teacher who fails to fulfill these conditions will be held responsible before the administrative and school boards.

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS

CONDITIONS FOR THE ADMISSION OF ORPHANS

1. The school will not admit more than thirty orphans.

2. Only those who are deprived of fathers can be accepted. The applicant must bring a certificate from the spiritual superior of the church to which he belongs in his own town or village, establishing his dire need. This certificate must be approved by the departments of health and public relief.

3. To be accepted in the school an orphan must be between the ages of nine and twelve.

4. An orphan must carry with him his passport, indicating that he is Syriac.

5. Upon graduating from school an orphan must submit to the orders of his board for a period of three years. His guardian shall be responsible for him should he disobey.
6. Every orphan accepted in the school must have a guardian who will answer for him when necessary and who will act as his surety when the occasion calls for it.

7. The period of stay in the school for an orphan must not exceed nine years, providing he enters the elementary class.

8. An orphan pupil who fails two years in succession shall be taken out of school and put to work at some trade.

9. An orphan pupil must perform the school chores required of him without complaint.

10. An orphan who seeks to create trouble in the orphanage or consorts with those who do, shall be held accountable before the administrative and school boards.

In the fifth paragraph reference is made to the responsibilities of the guardian which are herein defined as follows:

1. The guardian has no right to place the administrative board under responsibility should something happen to his ward which, by the testimony of the superintendent and two of the teachers is held as accidental.

2. A guardian cannot require the orphanage to take back his ward after he leaves it for the second time, without compelling reasons or the consent of the board.

3. The guardian must not interfere in matters which pertain to the good of the orphanage, as long as these are within the circle of sanitation and morality.

4. Should an orphan refuse to obey the orders of the board after his graduation, the guardian must pay a sum of thirty Ottoman (gold) pounds in the period of three years.

GENERAL REGULATIONS AND REQUIREMENTS

1. No orphan is accepted in the orphanage and its school who is not of sound body and mind, free of communicable diseases, accompanied with a physician's certificate to that effect.

2. No pupil is accepted in the school of the orphanage who is not between the ages of seven and fifteen, provided that a pupil in the latter age must have advanced at least to the seventh grade. Every pupil coming from outside of Beirut must be considered as a boarding pupil, or otherwise refused admission.

3. Every student failing two successive years will not be accepted in the Orphanage school.

4. Every student who causes trouble and corrupts the character of the pupils, will be expelled from school.

5. If a pupil who is expelled from the Orphanage school, whether he be a day student or a boarding student, or leaves the Orphanage by his own consent has no right to demand return of the paid tuition.
6. Expenses for books and school accessories are not included in the tuition fee.

7. In case of two brothers or more, whether day or boarding pupils, there will be a reduction of 10% from the tuition fee. A similar reduction will be made for the children of priests.

8. Every pupil must show obedience and respect to his superiors and teachers, contrary conduct may be considered a deficiency in character.

9. Pupils are warned against absentation without permission. Any pupil thus absenting himself from studies, unless he can show a certificate signed by his parents or guardians, will be suspended.

10. Every student during his stay outside of school is warned against any activity which might bring disrepute to the school, and shall be punished if he plots against its policy and objectives.

INFORMATION CONCERNING BOARDING PUPILS

1. Supervision: The nearer the boarding pupils life is to that of the family, the more content and happy the student is. The Orphanage aims to attain this ideal, cultivating, the pupils' emotions after the best pattern. This the school does by appointing a committee of the superintendent and three teachers who have long experience in the science of pedagogy, helping the pupils to solve their scholastic problems, thus adding to the general welfare, both of the pupils and of the school.

2. A new method has been adopted in the school program. Of these is a regulation of the leave of absence which is granted pupils who wish to leave school by permission on certain occasions and at certain set times. The number of these permissions depend on the conduct of the student and his grade. The younger pupils cannot leave the school except in the company of teachers or an elder student who will take care of them.

3. Medical Attention: The orphanage offers the medical attention necessary for securing the health of the pupils. Expenses for extended medical care, however, will be required from the pupil's guardians.

4. Physical Culture: Physical culture energizes the physical, mental, and spiritual powers of the pupil. For this reason the school requires physical exercises and various games of the pupils two hours every week, besides football, basketball and other physical competitions which are carried on with other schools. The orphanage is not responsible for accidents or injuries which might befall the pupils during their physical exercises, whether these be compulsory or of free choice, inside the orphanage building or outside of it.

5. Societies: The orphanage has organized several societies among the pupils of which are the Boy Scouts, a dramatic society, a debating society, etc., thus filling a long felt need in the school and among the people.
6. Spending Money: A pupil requires a set sum of money for such expenses as books, hair cut, pressing clothes, etc. Parents are warned, however, not to give their children large sums of money for their personal expenses. It is advisable that instead of handing the pupils money, such money be left in trust with the school treasury, and that it be given to the pupil a little at a time, in accordance with the advice of his parents or guardian.

SCHOOL MARKS

School marks are given to the pupils three times a year, at the end of each semester. In case of the day students, the marks are handed to them; but in the case of the boarding students, the administration sends the marks to the guardian. Guardians are therefore requested to look for those marks at set times, and to communicate with the school administration when they fail to receive them.

ADVANCEMENT FROM GRADE TO GRADE

The passing mark is twelve out of twenty. Whoever gets a mark below twelve shall be considered as having failed. Pupils failing in one or two subjects may be given a supplementary examination at the opening of the next scholastic year. His status is then determined according to the result of this examination. Those failing in three subjects or more are required to repeat the year, the better to establish the foundation of their learning.

ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS

Applicants and pupils who had failed in the previous year are given free examinations to determine the grades to which they should belong.

LIST OF DISTINCTION

Pupils who distinguish themselves through application and good conduct will have their names appear in the list of distinguished pupils at the end of each semester.

LANGUAGES TAUGHT AT THE ORPHANAGE SCHOOL

1. The first language of the school is the Syriac, which is considered the national language. It is a compulsory language in all classes, and the school takes especial interest in teaching it.

2. The second language in importance is the Arabic language. It also is compulsory, being the language of the land, and the school takes interest in teaching it thoroughly to the pupils.

3. Following the Arabic language is the French which is the curricular language for sciences, mathematics, history and geography, following the program of the French and Lebanese schools.

4. Besides these languages English is taught in the four highest grades from the sixth to the third.
